He was different to the rest of the kids at his school.

He was the only coloured kid in the entire school.
Even the teachers treated him like an outcast.

He wasn't rude and never answered back...

And was never chosen to be on for the games on the weekend, all because he was different.
Every day was a struggle between giving up or keeping his head held high.

But things started to change when he met Constance.
She didn't seem to care that Ty was different.

Though some people still ridiculed and despised her for it.

She accepted him and when others saw they started to accept him.
Try was different to the rest of the kids at his school. He was the only coloured kid. Every single teacher treated him as an outcast. Most days were a struggle between giving up and keeping his head held high.

But life's always easier when you have friends to help you up.
Written by Doryll Richards
Art by Doryll Richards
Themes inspired by To Kill A Mockingbird by Harper Lee

Thank you for reading 😊